Reporting on Breaches

Question

Does the company publicly report on breaches of the code of conduct for the last financial year?

Rationale

Organizations are increasingly expected by the marketplace, international norms and stakeholders to demonstrate their adherence to integrity, governance and good business practices. While reporting to authorities is mandatory in many countries, our questions look for evidence of transparent corporate reporting to all stakeholders. This question assesses the transparency a company shows toward its stakeholders in relation to breaches of its codes of conduct or anti-corruption and bribery policies, in terms of both the occurrence of incidents and the company's response.

Key Definitions

Customer data privacy: A data breach relative to the customer. This is defined as the accidental or unlawful destruction, loss, alteration or unauthorized disclosure of or access to personal data transmitted, stored or otherwise processed. This includes, but is not limited to, the disclosure of personally identifiable customer information, theft of customer financial information and healthcare data.

Data Requirements

This question assesses disclosure on various aspects of code of conduct-related breaches, such as corruption, discrimination, privacy, insider trading, etc. Filings to authorities that are not publicly available to all stakeholders will not be considered here.

If the company discloses the total monetary value of fines associated with corruption and bribery cases, the tick box "We report the amount of fines related to corruption and bribery cases (latest FY)" should be marked and the numerical text box filled.

If the company discloses just the total number of breaches for all aspects of the code of conduct (without breakdown), then the second option — "We report on total number of cases/breaches but do not report on specific areas" — should be selected.

If, while reporting, the company has grouped some areas of breaches together, then the third option — "We report breaches on a combined basis, but only for some areas in the code of conduct" — should be selected.

If there were no codes of conduct breaches, the fourth option — "We report that no codes of conduct-related breaches have occurred during the most recent reporting cycle" — should be chosen. Please also indicate where this is publicly reported.

The absence of breaches needs to be publicly disclosed for the purpose of this question and an indication of where this is publicly reported should be given. A comment indicating that no breaches occurred and that reporting would have been available in the event of such breaches occurring is not sufficient for this question.

Disclosure Requirements

- This question requires supporting evidence from the public domain. The information provided has to be included in your public reporting (e.g., annual report, sustainability report, integrated report, company publications or corporate website).
- Any response that cannot be verified in the attached public document(s) will not be accepted.
