CEO Compensation - Long-Term Performance Alignment

Question

Does the company reports on the performance-based variable compensation system for its CEO?

Rationale

Both financial and non-financial metrics are becoming increasingly important in determining variable compensation for executive management and, more specifically, the CEO. In this question, we assess time vesting and performance periods that are used to determine the CEO's variable compensation. A longer vesting period ensures that the interests of management and the long-term interests of shareholders are better aligned. Additionally, we assess whether the short-term bonus is deferred in shares or stock options.

The economic alignment of management with the long-term performance of the company is an essential component of executive compensation. This alignment can be achieved in several ways, including deferral of short-term compensation, time vesting, and long-term performance periods. Alignment with long-term performance is particularly important during periods of short CEO tenure, as the risk of short-termism increases. For example, in 2009, CEOs of S&P 500 companies held their position for an average of 7.2 years. This increased to 10.8 years in 2015 as the economy recovered and turnover declined, but the risk of a reversion remains. (Matteo Tonello, The Conference Board, Inc., 2016). A longer vesting period ensures that the interests of management and the long-term interests of shareholders are better aligned.

Key Definitions

Deferred shares: This refers to the percentage of the short-term bonus paid out in deferred shares instead of cash. The company can choose to pay the annual short-term bonus in deferred shares to the CEO and other executive directors which is considered best practice.

Deferred bonus: This type of compensation is an arrangement in which a portion of an employee's income is paid out at a later date after which the income was earned during a set performance period.

Performance period: This refers to a performance-based pay-out structure of variable compensation for the current period x, which is dependent on achieving targets in the following periods (x+1, x+2, x+3, etc.). Please note that option- and stock-based compensation for which the number of options or stocks rewarded is not dependent on future performance does not count as performance vesting but as time vesting.

Example: "The actual number of shares that may become earned and payable under the awards will generally range from 0% to 200% of the target number of units based on achievement of the specified goals over a two-year period."

Clawback/recoupment provision: This is a policy that allows a company to recover performance-based compensation for some period of time after compensation awards are granted. Clawback/Recoupment provisions may apply to short and/or long-term awards. The circumstances and conduct that would trigger clawback/recoupment provisions include, but are not limited to, restatement of financial results, errors in financial information reported, misconduct by the employee directly, or misconduct by any other employee that results in incorrect financial reporting.

Time vesting: This refers to time-based pay-out structures of variable compensation for the current period x over the coming years (x+1, x+2, x+3, etc.). The amount of future payout is independent of the coming year's performance. If all long-term incentives are based on future performance, the same figure should be given for the longest performance period and the longest time vesting period.

We accept the total number: The sum of the vesting period and the required holding period.

Exceptions to the standard methodology for non-listed companies:

The definition of shares includes non-tradable stock and phantom/synthetic shares that replicate the company's share practice performance.

Phantom/synthetic shares: A phantom stock is an employee benefit plan that gives selected employees (senior management) many of the benefits of stock ownership without actually giving them any company stock. This is sometimes referred to as shadow stock. Phantom stock, also known as synthetic equity, has no inherent requirements or restrictions regarding its use, allowing the organization to use is however it chooses.

Data Requirements

In this question, we assess time vesting and performance periods as well as whether the company has a clawback/recoupment provision in place. In addition, we assess if the short-term bonus is deferred in shares or stock options.

The question applies to CEO compensation only.

In case the company doesn't pay variable compensation (has a policy to not pay variable compensation), please mark "The question is not applicable to the company."

If the company is a REIT company managed by a third-party organization, with zero employees or a small number of employees and the company does not provide cash compensation to any of their named executive officers or other officers / no executives, please mark "The question is not applicable to the company."

If the company is a limited partnership entity with no employees of its own and is managed by a general partner, please mark "The question is not applicable to the company."

Disclosure Requirements

Listed and/or publicly owned companies are required to provide links to public reports or corporate websites.

Non-listed companies are required to provide the following evidence, depending on the type of company:

- Family-owned companies and privately owned companies are required to provide public reports, corporate websites, or internal documents.
- Cooperatives are required to provide public reports, corporate websites, or internal documents.
- State-owned companies are required to report on their corporate governance in the public domain as their key stakeholder is the general public.

Please note: Answers in the form of 'Confidential additional comments' for any type of non-listed company will not be accepted.
