Management Ownership

Question

Does the company's CEO and other executive committee members hold company shares?

Rationale

Corporate governance systems aim to ensure that a company is managed in the interests of its shareholders. In this question, we assess whether the company's CEO and other executive officers have stock ownership. Academic research suggests that stock ownership by senior management positively correlates with financial performance.

Additional Question Guidance & Information Display

Key Definitions

Shares: Shares are units of equity ownership in a corporation. In this question, we accept publicly traded shares as well as other forms of participation in equity ownership.

Economic interest in shares held: The shares included in the calculation should not be hedged or the personal financial risk of holding the shares otherwise removed.

Data Requirements

This question assesses the stock ownership level of the CEO and other executive committee members compared to their respective base salaries.

Chief Executive Officer: Base salary and shareholdings of the CEO or shareholding expressed as a multiple of the CEO's base salary.

Other executive committee members: Base salary and shareholdings of at least two members of the executive committee or average shareholdings of the executive committee expressed as a multiple of their base salaries. Please note that the metrics need to be reported for each named executive individually (a consolidated figure is not sufficient).

If the company has multiple CEOs calculate the average of their salaries/shareholdings if data is available for both.

If the company's CEO is relatively new to the company, please use the latest fiscal year information for the previous CEO until the new CEO has served for a full fiscal year.

The shares of all the executives for whom the ownership information is available publicly even if they are no longer serving in the company (retired in the previous FY) should be considered for the calculation of management ownership.

Performance stock units (PSUs), Restricted stock units (RSUs), Deferred stock units (DSUs), Phantom stocks and share options are not to be included in the calculations for this question. Other types of unvested shares should also not be included in the calculation. Only company's shares that are currently owned should be counted. As such, this question does not take into account ownership through a family trust, charitable trust, or other forms of ownership which do not link to the stock. However, joint stocks owned by the CEO/executive with spouse or others should be included in the calculation.

Shareholdings of executive directors in company's subsidiaries are not to be included in the calculation.

Calculations:

CEO multiple calculation: Share price at the end of the FY * number of shares held by the CEO / base salary of CEO

Other executives' multiple calculation: (share price at the end of the FY * the number of shares held by executive A / base salary of executive) + (share price at the end of the FY * the number of shares held by executive B / base salary of executive) + (…) / number of executives with shareholdings reported

For US-based companies, please use the share price at the time of the shareholder meeting, and the salary and number of shares held at that time for the purpose of calculations.

If the CEO does not have a base salary (or has a nominal salary such as 1 dollar, it will not be possible to calculate the multiple properly. In this case, please mark "The question is not applicable to the company".

If the company is a REIT company managed by a third-party organization, with zero employees or a small number of employees and the company does not provide cash compensation to any of their named executive officers or other officers / no executives, please mark "The question is not applicable to the company".

If the company is a limited partnership entity with no employees of its own and is managed by a general partner, please mark "The question is not applicable to the company".

Non-listed companies: For state-owned companies, this question can be marked "The question is not applicable to the company" because the company will still be assessed for having government ownership in question - "Government Ownership".

Disclosure Requirements

For listed companies, if no public documentation is provided, internal documentation should be provided that includes the base salary and shareholdings reported as well as the calculations.

For non-listed companies, internal documents are generally accepted.

Disclosure requirements for partially public question:

Additional credit will be granted for public reporting of the following parts of the question:

- CEO's shares as a multiple of base salary.
- Average across other executive committee members owning shares as a multiple of base salary.

Please note: Answers in the form of 'Confidential additional comments' for any type of non-listed company will not be accepted.
