Human Rights Mitigation & Remediation

Question

Does the company have programs to mitigate and remediate negative impacts of human rights risks?

Rationale

The purpose of this question is to know through concrete examples, what the reporting company has done during the reporting period to reduce the likelihood of negative impacts related to each human rights risk and what actions has it taken when the impact has already happened.

In assessing human rights impacts, companies will have searched for both actual and potential adverse impacts. Potential impacts should be prevented or mitigated through the horizontal integration of findings across the business enterprise, while actual impacts—those that have already occurred – should be a subject for remediation.

Key Definitions

Mitigation actions: The mitigation of a negative human rights impact refers to actions taken to reduce the extent of the impact. The mitigation of a human rights risk refers to actions taken to reduce the likelihood that a potential negative impact will occur.

Remediation actions: Here they are understood as processes that apply when the company has caused or contributed to a negative human rights impact (an actual violation has already happened) and through which it is able to help ensure that the people who were impacted receive an effective remedy. The remediating action aims to restore individuals or groups that have been harmed by a business's activities to the situation they would have been in had the impact not occurred. Where this is not possible, it can involve compensation or other forms of remedy that try to make amends for the harm caused. These outcomes may take a range of forms such as apologies, restitution, rehabilitation, financial or non-financial compensation, and punitive sanctions (whether criminal or administrative, such as fines), as well as the prevention of harm through, for example, injunctions or guarantees of non-repetition.

This should not be confused with 'remediation' in the context of social audits, where the concept includes and typically focuses on forward-looking actions to prevent a non-compliance from recurring.

Data Requirements

Information should be specifically related to human rights issues, general information on ESG or sustainability would not be accepted unless it concretely states the specific human rights topics considered within a more general approach.

We require supporting evidence to be available in the public domain.

Note: For the number of sites with mitigation plans, information on the general number of mitigation plans or number of mitigation plans for operations/business units/business operations/products/investment portfolio/clients will also be accepted.

For remediation actions, in case the company has been involved directly or indirectly in a human rights impact, information should be provided on the type of remediation actions taken. The information should always be linked with an existing impact or violation. In case the company has not caused nor contributed to any human rights violation, this should be stated in the public domain. In this case, the option can be ticked as no remediating actions would be expected.

Note for companies in BNK, FBN, INS:

Number of sites:

The number of sites can be interpreted as the number of portfolios, client relationships or products with mitigation actions in place.

Mitigation actions:

The following types of mitigation actions could also be considered when they specifically refer to human rights in case of indirect involvement in a potential adverse human rights impact:

- specific human rights requirements in investment mandates or clear human rights conditions precedent to investments,
- due diligence requirements with respect to investee companies,

- use of leverage in case of investee company breach of covenants,
- exclusions (maintaining a no-go list) of high-risk companies or companies that are in breach/violation of human rights principles,
- active engagement with investee,
- divestment decisions.

Remediation actions:

As for remediation actions, companies within the BNK, FBN and INS would frequently only be indirectly linked with the adverse impact. In those cases, where the company has not contributed to the impact, but is still directly linked to the harm through its business relationships, information about the efforts to persuade the investee company/business relationship to remediate the harm and about its participation in dialogue or mediation processes regarding the remediation of the adverse impact is expected. Also, information about co-operation with judicial and non-judicial mechanisms would be expected for companies involved in judicial or non-judicial proceedings related with human rights issues. Besides, an entity acknowledging the harm suffered and demonstrating efforts to improve its processes to ensure that similar adverse impacts will not reoccur is also acceptable.

In addition, information on direct mitigation and remediation actions are expected when the company has directly caused or may have caused an adverse human rights impact.
