Water-Related Regulatory Changes & Pricing Structure

Question

How does your company manage water-related risks in terms of regulatory changes and potential changes in price structure (e.g. water tariffs, withdrawal restrictions, discharge standards and discharge tariffs)? At the corporate level, we track and monitor the following (please tick only if the statement is valid for the majority of your production plants/sites located in water-stressed areas and provide supporting evidence).If you do not have any production plants in water-stressed areas, please indicate which type of risk management measures have generally been taken with regards to water-related risks at your company.

Rationale

Potential regulatory changes and changes in price structure (e.g. water tariffs, withdrawal restrictions, etc.) increase risks of companies' operations. With this question, we assess how companies manage these risks.

Data Requirements

Supporting evidence:

- The document(s) you attached will be used to verify your response.
- The supporting documents do not need to be available in the public domain.
- If a question text field is available, a comprehensive answer in that field can be accepted instead of a supporting document.
- Any response that cannot be verified in the attached document(s) or via the information provided in the related question text field (if available) will not be accepted.

For companies with exposure to water-stressed areas - indicate policies or risk management measures that apply to the majority of the plants/sites located in water-stressed areas.

For companies with NO exposure to water-stressed areas - this question needs to be answered by all companies as it also assesses preparedness for future changes in conditions (both in terms of company structure and geographical conditions). Please indicate any policies or risk management measures that have been taken on a corporate level relating to water stress or water-related risks.
