Philanthropic Contributions

Question

For the last fiscal year, please estimate the total monetary value (at cost) of your company's corporate citizenship/philanthropic contributions for each of the following categories. Please note that marketing and advertising budgets should be excluded from the calculation. Please provide supporting evidence only if this information is available in your public reporting or corporate website. Public reporting must be available individually for all of the aspects reported here to receive credit for public reporting. Reporting of a total or overall figure is not sufficient to receive credit for public reporting.

Rationale

In order to be a catalyst for development, corporate philanthropy programs need to be well managed. Creating value for beneficiaries and shareholders alike requires companies to have a clear direction and focus guiding their philanthropic activities. This question aims to assess companies' awareness of the full costs related to their corporate citizenship programs, including indirect costs such as those linked to employee volunteering and management overheads (the costs associated with having a community affairs function in place).

Key Definitions

The categories follow the structure of the London Benchmarking Group (LBG) model. Answers should be provided as monetary values and not in, for example, hours spent or proportion of the total budget. We do not assess absolute amounts, but rather companies' awareness of the indirect costs associated with their corporate citizenship programs.

Cash contributions: Refers to the monetary amount paid by a company in support of community projects. This can include direct cash contributions and payments for materials and services. Examples of cash contributions include:

- Donations or grants
- Social sponsorship or support of cultural events or institutions
- Matched employee giving
- Employee involvement costs
- Membership and subscriptions to community-related organizations
- Cause-related marketing campaigns

Time (employees volunteering during paid working hours): Refers to the cost to the company of the time that an employee spends on a community program during working hours. Examples of time contributions include:

- Employee volunteering
- Fundraising
- Secondments
- Providing in-house training (e.g. supervising work experience placements)
- Development assignments

A simple way to calculate the cost of this time to a company is to divide the total cost of employees by the total number of employees. This figure can then be divided by the number of working days in a year and then by the standard number of working hours per day. With this hourly rate of employee cost to the company, a firm can accurately account for the cost of its employees' charitable activities during working hours. Please bear in mind that only active employee involvement should be counted. The time that employees spend organizing and running an event, for instance, should go into this calculation, but the time that employees spend attending an event but not helping run it should not.

In-kind giving: Refers to contributions of products, equipment, services and other non-cash items from the company to the community. Examples of in-kind contributions include:

- Donations of products (such as for prizes at community events)
- Contributions of used office equipment or furniture
- Use of company premises
- Provision of free advertising space in a publication or on a TV channel or website to a community organization at no cost
- Provision of pro bono legal, accounting or other professional services

In-kind contributions should be valued based on what it has cost the company to provide them, not on what the beneficiary would have had to pay to attain these goods or services at market prices.

Management costs (overheads): Refers to the costs associated with having in place a community affairs function; for example, providing salaries and benefits to community affairs staff, and paying for their overheads and costs related to research and communications. Examples of overhead costs include:

- Salaries, pension, national insurance, benefits & recruitment costs of communities affairs staff
- Running costs & overheads: phone & faxes, computer equipment, travel, business overheads, not just for individual projects
- Paying for external professional advice to better manage a program
- Communicating the community program to relevant audiences
- Research into issues and possible projects

Please assess overhead costs based on overall program coordination and communication, not by individual projects. (Time spent on one-off projects should be counted under time contributions, as described above.) If managing community programs is only one part of an employee's job, the cost of that employee should be apportioned accordingly.
