EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

A. COMPENSATION OF DIRECTORS

Directors of the Corporation received remuneration for their services during the 2000 financial year in an aggregate amount of $136,600. Each outside director received a retainer of $18,000 per annum and fees of $750 per Board Meeting attended and $300 for participating in each Board teleconference meeting. Directors serving on the Audit and Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committees received a retainer of $1,000 per annum (the Chair of each Committee received $1,500); such Committee members also received $750 for each Committee meeting attended and $300 for participating in each Committee Teleconference Meeting. Directors on Special Ad Hoc Committees received a retainer of $2,000 and $1,500 for each Committee Meeting attended and $600 for participating in each Committee Teleconference Meeting. The Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committee has recommended that a portion of the annual retainer be used to purchase common shares of the Company. Directors who are officers of the Corporation or a subsidiary company or Maple Leaf Foods do not receive fees. Directors are also reimbursed for travel and other out-of-pocket expenses incurred in attending Board or Committee meetings.

B. REPORT ON EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

The Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committee (''Committee'') is composed of three Directors all of whom are independent. Since December 1995, the Committee has consisted of John F. Petch (Chairman), Sarah A. Everett and John L. Bragg. It is the responsibility of the Committee to determine and approve, and to monitor and modify as required, the design and administration of compensation policies and practices generally of the Corporation and specifically, compensation policies and practices with respect to senior management (including executive officers) of the Corporation. The Committee meets at least four times per year and as required at the call of the Chairman of the Committee. The Committee reports to the Board on its proceedings.

Executive Compensation Strategy and Competitive Positioning

The objective of the Compensation Committee is to provide for a comprehensive compensation strategy that achieves the following results:

1. To attract and retain individuals of superior talent and skill by offering competitive salaries, taking into account the knowledge, skills and experience of individual executives, and the demands and responsibilities of their positions.
2. To motivate superior individual and group performance by including a component of incentive/variable pay compensation which rewards the achievement of specific indices of financial performance as determined by the Board.
3. To link individual and group performance with shareholder interests and retain top performing, high potential executives through the prudent use of equity-based compensation.
4. To encourage retention of key performers for the succession of management of the Corporation.

In arriving at its determination, the Committee has historically utilized formal compensation design and practice assessments and advice from independent sources as well as human resource management specialists within the Corporation. In addition, the Corporation familiarizes itself with the compensation practices of Maple Leaf Foods.

The compensation decisions made by the Committee seek to balance internal compensation equity for employees with external measurements for competitive practices within Canadian food and consumer products companies and autonomous Canadian and subsidiary companies of comparable size. In addition to internal and external analyses of compensation levels and programs, the Committee considers in the design of each segment of compensation, the long-term interest of the Corporation and its shareholders, and specifically, financial measures such as earnings, and return on net assets. To this end, the Corporation includes incentive/variable pay components within the design of the Corporation's total compensation program for employees. Recommendations on compensation matters, other than matters directly affecting him, are made to the Committee by the Chief Executive Officer.

The total compensation program for executive officers consists of three components: a base salary, an annual bonus, and a long-term incentive component. In establishing base salaries and salary ranges, the objective of the Committee is to establish levels which are competitive with the comparator groups mentioned above. With respect to the President and CEO, comparisons were made to similar positions in a grouping of autonomous and subsidiary companies of a size comparable to the Corporation, given the more particular responsibilities of these executives in a publicly-traded company. The comparator group used for other executives was a select grouping of Canadian food and consumer products companies. Individual levels, which are established annually, are determined in accordance with the performance of the individual over the preceding performance review period and superior individual performance will be recognized by the Committee.

In establishing annual bonus compensation, the Committee establishes threshold earnings of the Corporation to be achieved the following year. This ensures that shareholders receive an adequate level of performance before executives are rewarded. Specific awards to each executive are then allocated to reflect business performance. Executives employed by the Corporation during only part of the financial year may be entitled to participate in incentive compensation programs in that year, but only on a pre-negotiated basis.

In determining the compensation of the CEO of the Corporation, substantially similar criteria as mentioned previously were used. Apart from a comparative analysis of the CEO's position with similar positions in autonomous and subsidiary companies of similar size, the Committee took into account the growth of the Corporation and its financial results during the period.

The Corporation, has in the past, utilized incentive stock options to provide executive and management linkage to long-term financial success of the Corporation. Options of the Corporation and Maple Leaf Foods have been granted to executives from time to time, based on recommendations by senior management and the Committee as a tool to motivate executives to enhance the value of the Corporation.

The Corporation provides perquisites and benefits, in kind, on a standardized basis for executives. The benefits are selected on the basis of cost effectiveness and are intended to be competitive with those provided by companies of comparable size.

The following tables provide a summary of compensation earned during each of the last three fiscal years by the Corporation's Chief Executive Officer and the four most highly compensated executive officers other than the Chief Executive Officer for the year ended. The Chief Executive Officer and other executive officers are referred to collectively as the ''Named Executive Officers''. In this report, an ''executive'' or ''executive officer'' means the Chairman of the Board, the President, the Chief Executive Officer, or Vice-President in charge of a principal business unit, division or function of the Corporation, and any other officers of the Corporation or any subsidiary performing a policy-making function in respect to the Corporation. Specific aspects of the compensation policies and practices of the Corporation are dealt with in further detail in the following tables and subsequent report of the Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committee.

The executives were given the discretion to waive all or a portion of the share options and instead collect the cash bonus under the Rewards for Excellence plan. The exercise price of the options is market price ($14.00 for 1999 and $11.94 for 1998) and for purposes of the exchange the options were valued at $4.59 for 1999 ($3.84 for 1998) which is a 20% discount to the value of the option using the Black-Scholes model. The options received vested on March 15, 2000 for 1999 bonus (March 15, 1999 for 1998 bonus). The number of share options granted in respect of the 1998 bonus were Mr. Sparkes (5,576).

STATEMENT OF CORPORATE GOVERNANCE PRACTICES

This Statement of Corporate Governance Practices has been prepared by the Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committee (''Corporate Governance Committee'') of the Board and has been approved by the Board of Directors.

Composition of the Board

The Board consists of ten members. The Corporate Governance Committee has evaluated the relationship between each director and the management of the Corporation and has concluded that more than a majority of directors are ''unrelated'' directors (i.e. a director who is free from any interest and any business or other relationship which could, or could reasonably be perceived to materially, interfere with the director's ability to act in the best interests of the Corporation, other than interests arising from shareholding). Approximately 30% of the directors qualify as directors who are not related to either the Corporation or to Maple Leaf Foods Inc., the significant shareholder. Accordingly, the Board believes that it is composed of a number of directors which substantially reflects the proportionate investment in the Corporation by shareholders other than the significant shareholder.

Mandate of the Board of Directors

The Board of Directors is responsible for the supervision of the management of the business and affairs of the Corporation acting with a view to the best interests of the Corporation. Generally, all material matters relating to the business of the Corporation require the prior approval of the Board. The Board's key responsibilities include the approval of corporate objectives and the oversight of processes for:

- strategic planning;
- the identification and management, to the extent possible, of the principal business risks;
- internal control and management information systems;
- succession planning; and
- maintaining effective communications with shareholders, stakeholders, and the public.

Committees of the Board

The Board of Directors discharges its responsibilities directly and through its committees, namely the Audit Committee and the Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committee. Only outside directors (i.e. directors who are not officers or employees of the Corporation or of any of its affiliates) are members of the committees of the Board and a majority of members of each of these committees are ''unrelated'' directors.

Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committee

The Human Resources and Corporate Governance Committee is responsible for developing and monitoring the Corporation's systems of compensation and corporate governance including:

- reviewing and developing the Corporation's compensation policies and processes to endeavor to ensure that employees of the Corporation will be fairly and competitively compensated;
- annually evaluate the performance of the Chief Executive Officer against predetermined goals and criteria and reviewing and approving the amount of compensation to be paid to the Chief Executive Officer;
- annually considering the Chief Executive Officer's evaluation of the performance of the other executive officers of the Corporation and recommendations with respect to the amount of compensation to be paid to such executive officers;
- assisting the Board of Directors in ensuring that appropriate human resource development, succession planning and performance evaluation programs are in place and are operating effectively;
- periodically reviewing the size, composition and performance of the Board;
- periodically reviewing the committee structure and all committee mandates;
- annually proposing the nominee for the Chair and members of each Committee; and
- satisfying itself that structures are in place to ensure effective communication between the Corporation, its stakeholders and the public.

Audit Committee

The Audit Committee is primarily responsible for overseeing the integrity of the Corporation's internal controls including:

- reviewing the Corporation's financial statements prior to their approval by the Board;
- establishing the objectives and scope of audits with the auditors of the Corporation;
- reviewing the findings of audits and assessing management's response thereto; and
- approving the fees of the external auditors.

Relationship Between the Board and Management

The Board has a separate person serving as Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation. In addition, the Board of Directors believes that structures are in place which assist the Board in acting independently of management.

The annual schedule of meetings for the Board and its Committees is prepared by the Chairman of the Board, after consultation with the Committee chairs, the CEO and other directors. The Chairman of the Board develops the agendas for Board meetings after consultation with the CEO and management; background information and reports pertaining to meeting agenda items are circulated to the directors in advance whenever practicable.

Directors have open access to senior management of the Corporation as appropriate. The Board also encourages individual directors to provide specific advice and counsel to management regarding matters in respect of which they have special knowledge and experience.

Board's Expectations of Management

Management is responsible for the development of operating company and overall corporate strategies on an ongoing basis. The Board expects management to keep strategic plans current by continually reviewing important issues and evaluating the competitiveness and positioning of the Corporation's business. The role of the Board is to ensure that a strategic planning process is in place, to review and approve strategies developed by management, and to monitor management's success in implementing the strategies.

Shareholder Communications

Management of the Corporation maintains communications with shareholders, stakeholders and the public on an ongoing basis under the supervision of the Board. Management also represents the Corporation in its communications with the investment community, the media, customers, suppliers, employees, governments and the general public. The Board approves the content of all major communications to shareholders and the investing public, including annual and interim financial statements, management proxy circulars, annual information forms and prospectuses. The Corporation attempts to consider and respond to all shareholder inquiries. Management provides from time to time, as appropriate, a report to the Board of significant comments which the Corporation receives from shareholders.

DIRECTORS' AND OFFICERS' LIABILITY INSURANCE

Directors' and officers' liability insurance has been arranged through the Corporation's controlling shareholder, Maple Leaf Foods, at an annual premium cost of $14,460 which was not allocated as between officers and directors. The insurance limit under the policy is $35,000,000 for each loss and each policy year with the Corporation subject to a $250,000 deductible provision. The directors and officers are not liable for any payment under a deductibility clause.
