Codes of Conduct

Question

Does the company have a group-wide code of conduct and is it available publicly?

Rationale

Codes of conduct are corporate documents outlining a company's values, principles and guidelines in a variety of areas. Ideally, codes combine aspirations and detailed standards on how to put them into practice, guiding how the company conducts its business activities. Codes of conduct are voluntary but often seen as an important part of company culture, reputation and compliance. With this question, we assess the existence and scope of a company's code of conduct.

Additional Question Guidance & Information Display

Data Requirements

Please be aware that codes of conduct can come in different formats and have different names (e.g., internal rules, company credo, compliance codes, ethics codes, codes of practice, charters).

Codes of conduct that are applicable to a wide range of executives - directors, managers, and supervisors is accepted.

Not acceptable:

- Code of conduct which is applicable only to directors and senior management.
- Code of conduct which permits waivers of the code for directors or executive officers.

Corruption and bribery

The policy should cover both ways (i.e., the company does not just prohibit bribing external parties, but also prohibit corruptive behavior within the company itself, e.g., accepting gifts etc.) for the option to be accepted.

Antitrust/anticompetitive practices

General information on fair dealing or ethical practices is not accepted for this option. Fair dealing refers to the ethical and lawful conduct in business transactions, encompassing principles of honesty, integrity, and respect for the rights of others. It involves acting in a transparent, equitable, and morally upright manner when engaging in commercial activities, including negotiations, contracts, and transactions. Fair dealing promotes trust, reliability, and mutual respect among parties involved in business interactions.

Environment, health, and safety

Please provide information that the policy covers all three aspects, environmental and health & safety, to accept the option.

Disclosure Requirements

This question requires supporting evidence from the public domain. The information provided must be included in your public reporting (e.g., annual report, sustainability report, integrated report, company publications, separate fuel efficiency strategy document) or corporate website.

Any response that cannot be verified in the attached public document(s) will not be accepted.
