Family Ownership

Question

Does the company report whether any individual founding members or family members, either personally or through other companies or organizations, hold more than 5% of the company's voting rights?

Rationale

Corporate governance systems aim to ensure a company is managed in the interests of its shareholders. In this question, we assess if one or several individuals of a company's founding family are ultimate owners and have more than 5% of the voting rights. Academic research (e.g., Eugster & Isakov, 2016; Corstjens, Peyer & Van der Heyden, 2006) suggests that family ownership is positively correlated with future operating profit.

Key Definitions

Significant family ownership: At least one of the founding individuals/family members, personally or through other companies or organizations, must own more than 5% of the voting rights of your company. If no individual owns more than 5%, we do not consider it significant family ownership.

Founding family: The founding family can be one or several individuals or family members. They might not have necessarily set up the company independently. In case a family acquires an existing company and transforms it into a new company, this second family can be considered the "founding family" (e.g., if a company has been acquired, re-named, and rebranded).

Data Requirements

We are looking for founding family ownership, to assess whether descendants of the founding families are current owners with significant voting rights.

Total percentage of voting rights of founding family members, personally or through companies/organizations to be reported:

- If one family member owns more than 5%, the respondent shall report the total of all family members' holdings, e.g., add the person(s) with individual ownership of over 5% of voting rights plus those who individually own less than 5% of voting rights. Please report the total even if there is no pooling agreement in place.
- If the family owns more than 5% of the company through a holding company, the family must own at least 50% of the holding company that in turn holds shares of the company.
- If none of the family members individually own more than 5% of the company's voting rights, please mark "No, (founding) family members individually do not have more than 5% of the voting rights."
- If any of the founding members or their families still hold more than 5%, this should be reported.
- if the company was not founded by a family, please mark "Not applicable".

Specific data requirements for non-listed companies

- For family-owned companies, the distribution of voting rights can also be evaluated if there are no publicly traded shares, as there exist other types of shares/instruments that correspond to voting rights.

Disclosure Requirements

Listed and/or publicly owned companies are required to provide links to public reports or corporate websites.

Non-listed companies are required to provide the following evidence, depending on the type of company:

- Family-owned companies and privately owned companies are required to provide public reports, corporate websites, or internal documents.
- Cooperatives are required to provide public reports, corporate websites, or internal documents.
- State-owned companies are required to report on their corporate governance in the public domain as their key stakeholder is the general public.

Please note: Answers in the form of 'Confidential additional comments' for any type of non-listed company will not be accepted.
