Supplier Code of Conduct

Question

Does the company have a supplier code of conduct and is it available publicly?

Rationale

Companies outsource production, services and business processes as well as responsibilities, risks, and opportunities. On the one hand, outsourcing generally tends to increase a company's flexibility. O the other hand, supply chain risks may become less apparent, new dependencies may arise, and the identification, monitoring and management of risks and opportunities in the supply chain may become more difficult.

A general supplier code of conduct summarizes and represents the basic commitments a company requires from its suppliers. It also serves as a primary source of information for prospective suppliers. With this question, we assess whether your company has a supplier code of conduct, whether it is public and what issues it covers.

Key Definitions

Supplier code of conduct: This describes the principles, values, standards and rules of behavior that guide the supplier's decisions, procedures, and systems in a way that (a) contributes to the welfare of its key stakeholders, and (b) respects the rights of all constituents affected by its operations. It usually includes at least three components: human rights and labour, environment, and business ethics.

Human rights and labor: This includes safeguards against child labor, non-discrimination, health and safety, working conditions, working hours, compensation, right to association, and freely chosen employment.

Forced labor: This is all work and service exacted from any person under threat of penalty and for which said person has not offered their labor voluntarily. Forced labor also includes human trafficking, which is the recruitment, transportation, transfer, harboring or receipt of persons by threatening, forcing or coercing them in any way, abduction, fraud, deception, abuse of power, or a position of vulnerability, or the giving or receiving of payments or benefits to achieve the consent of a person having control over another person, conducted for the purposes of sexual exploitation, forced labor or service, slavery or practices similar to slavery, servitude, or the removal of organs.

Child labor: This is work performed by children that is mentally, physically, socially or morally dangerous and harmful to children, affecting their health and personal development, or that interferes with their compulsory schooling.

Working conditions: This covers a broad range of topics and issues, from working time (hours of work, rest periods and work schedules) to remuneration, as well as the physical conditions and mental demands that exist in the workplace.

Occupational health and safety: This is a set of interrelated or interacting elements to establish an occupational health and safety policy and objectives, and to achieve those objectives.

Harassment: Harassment is defined as comments or actions that are unwelcome, or should reasonably be known to be unwelcome, to the person toward whom they are addressed. Non-sexual harassment includes but is not exclusive to mobbing and bullying; sexual harassment includes a sexual component.

Discrimination: This is the act and result of treating a person unequally by imposing unequal burdens on them or denying them benefits due to their race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, age, nationality, religion, union status, and/or marital status, instead of treating them fairly based on individual merit.

Freedom of association: This is the right of employees and workers to form, join and run their own organizations without prior authorization or interference by the state or any other entity.

Collective bargaining: This is all negotiations that take place between one or more employers or employers' organizations and one or more workers' organizations (trade unions) to determine working conditions and terms of employment or to regulate relations between employers and workers.

Environment: This includes avoiding pollution, minimizing emissions and improving the resource efficiency of supplier operations and products throughout the lifecycle.

Greenhouse gas emissions and energy consumption: This refers to emissions of the six main greenhouse gases that are covered by the Kyoto Protocol, including carbon dioxide (CO2), methane (CH4), nitrous oxide (N2O), hydrofluorocarbons (HFCs), perfluorocarbons (PFCs), and sulfur hexafluoride (SF6). Energy consumption refers to the purchase or production and use of energy from renewable sources (e.g., hydroelectric, wind, solar, geothermal, bioenergy) and to the efficient use of energy by reducing the waste/loss of energy or upgrading equipment with lower energy consumption.

Pollution prevention and waste management: This refers to the prevention and management/disposal of by-products in business operations such as air pollutants (e.g., particulate matter, lead, sulfur dioxide, etc.), sewage, and solid waste (including non-hazardous and hazardous waste).

Resource efficiency: This refers to organizational or technological modification in designing products/processes that allow more efficient usage of raw materials or water.

Biodiversity, no deforestation, or land conservation: This refers to the protection or promotion of natural habitats, biodiversity or management of soil to avoid loss of nutrients, erosion and land pollution. Some aspects might include, for example, (a) management of biodiversity risks by setting targets to offset any losses (no net loss) or goals to achieve a net positive impact on biodiversity; (b) prohibition of supplier operations in sites containing globally or nationally important biodiversity; (c) application of mitigation hierarchy (avoid, minimize, restore and offset) if a company is operating in areas close to critical biodiversity; and (d) land conservation efforts that include a variety of techniques such as contour farming, mulching, crop rotation, etc.

Business ethics: This refers to policies and practices that ensure the ethical conduct of the organization and associated individuals in all business activities, including, but not limited to, anti-corruption, anti-competitiveness and conflict of interest.

Anti-corruption: This refers to "abuse of entrusted power for private gain" that is instigated by individuals or organizations. It includes practices such as bribery, facilitation payments, fraud, extortion, collusion and money laundering, as well as the offer or receipt of any gift, loan, fee, reward or another advantage to or from any person as an inducement to do something dishonest, illegal or considered a breach of trust in the conduct of the enterprise's business.

Anti-competitiveness: This refers to organization or employee actions that can result in collusion with potential competitors, with the purpose of limiting the effects of market competition. It includes, but is not limited to, cartel activities, price fixing and anti-trust activities.

Conflict of interest: This refers to a situation where an individual is confronted with choosing between the requirements of his or her function and his or her own private interests.

Data Requirements

Responsible Business Alliance Code of Conduct RBA CoC is accepted only when the company is either a 'Full' or 'Regular' member at the link below.

https://www.responsiblebusiness.org/about/members/

A company's code of conduct will only be accepted if it specifically states that meeting the code/guidelines are prerequisite for forming business ties with its suppliers, and therefore, the relevant options can be marked based on information in the code. A description in the sustainability report of this prerequisite is not sufficient.

Discrimination and Harassment: Please provide information on both discrimination and harassment.

Freedom of association and collective bargaining: Please provide information on both freedoms of association and collective bargaining.

Greenhouse gas emissions and energy consumption: Provide statements addressing greenhouse gas emissions such as carbon dioxide (CO2), methane (CH4), nitrous oxide (N2O), hydrofluorocarbons (HFCs), perfluorocarbons (PFCs), and sulfur hexafluoride (SF6), etc. AND energy consumption (e.g., hydroelectric, wind, solar, geothermal, bioenergy).

Pollution prevention and waste management: Provide statements addressing pollution and waste management of any of the following resources: air, water, land, etc. Waste management can address either solid, hazardous, non-hazardous waste or sewage. Kindly provide information on both pollution and waste management.
