Human Rights Assessment

Question

Does the company report whether it has conducted an assessment of potential human rights issues across its business activities in the last three years?

Rationale

The question assesses the extent to which the company is proactively identifying where risks are and how it is managing them. The process should consider the countries where contexts in which the organization operates, the potential and actual human rights impacts resulting from the organization's activities, and the relationships connected to those activities. Key Definitions

Own operations: Include direct activities, own employees, own sites, own products/services

Contractors and Tier I suppliers: Include brokers, consultants, contractors, distributors, franchisees or licensees, home workers, independent contractors, manufacturers, primary producers, sub-contractors, and wholesalers.

Joint ventures (including stakes above 10%): All joint ventures not included in own operations as defined above.

Percentage of suppliers assessed in the last three years: This refers to the number of entities across the different categories of business activities that have been assessed in the last three years, divided by the total absolute number of entities within the different categories of business activities in the current year. If an entity has been assessed multiple times in the last three years, it should only be counted once.

Data Requirements

For information on their own operations, companies may choose the basis for reporting from the following options: % of FTEs, % of revenues, % of clients, % of investment portfolio, % of sites, or % of products.

For information on contractors and Tier I suppliers, the basis for reporting should be the % of contractors and Tier I suppliers.

For information on joint ventures, the basis for reporting should be the % of joint ventures.

Please mark this question as "Not applicable" and provide an explanation in the comment box if the company has done a basic screen and:

- only operates in a country with relatively low risk of human rights
- contractors and suppliers are a relatively a small part of your overall value chain, or are concentrated in countries with low human rights risks
- have none or only a few joint ventures (including stakes above 10%), or they are concentrated in countries with low human rights risk

Disclosure Requirements

Disclosure requirements for partially public question:

Additional credit will be granted if evidence for at least one KPI, e.g., % of total assessed -own operations, contractors or tier 1 suppliers, or joint ventures- in last three years, is publicly available.
