Board Diversity Policy

Question

Does the company have a policy on board diversity?

Rationale

Corporate boards are tasked with monitoring companies' management teams on behalf of those companies' shareholders and other stakeholders. Boards are the direct representatives of these stakeholders and form one of the most important components of corporate governance. It is therefore important that the board members selected have the right experience and skills, are sufficiently independent, and act in the best interests of all stakeholders.

Diversity adds value to the board through differences in perspectives and experience. Diverse boards can assess problems from a broader point of view and are more likely to take into account the interests of all stakeholders. Furthermore, studies have shown a positive correlation between gender diversity on boards and companies' financial performance. It is also important for board members to have a broad and complementary range of skills, although boards' needs can differ across individual companies and industries depending on the existing and required skills of board members and the pool of qualified board members available when electing new board members.

Key Definitions

Local corporate governance codes: Certain local corporate governance codes include guidance on diversity criteria. This can be accepted in this question if both of the following criteria apply:

- The company states that it adheres to the local corporate governance code without exceptions or clearly states what those exceptions are and that they do not include the diversity factors specifically ticked in the question
- The local corporate governance code clearly indicates that the specific criteria ticked in the response are considered for the board nomination process.

Race: In the absence of any internationally agreed definition, race is most often statistically characterized in terms of phenotype and appearance (e.g., skin colors), or with regard to ancestry. This should not be understood as an attempt to trace the definition of race to biological, anthropological or genetic factors but rather to (somewhat artificially) distinguish it from the concept of ethnicity (OECD, 2018).

Ethnicity: This describes a shared culture, the practices, values, and beliefs that characterize those belonging to a community. This multidimensional concept acts as an umbrella term encompassing language, religious traditions, and others (UN, 2017). A number of related concepts, including ancestry, citizenship, and nationality, may overlap with ethnicity. However, ethnicity is not the same as nationality or citizenship, nor it is a measure of biology or genes (OECD, 2018).

Nationality: While geographic diversity has received less attention than gender or racial diversity on boards, geographic diversity adjusts the lens through which risks and strategies are examined. To manage global risks and opportunities and to improve board effectiveness, geographic diversity in the boardroom in a global marketplace needs to increase. Here, nationality captures a person's country of origin or citizenship

Data Requirements

General references to diversity, such as not discriminating between board candidates, is not sufficient.

A board diversity policy needs to contain specific requirements for taking diversity factors into account during board nomination. Statements related to non-discrimination between sexes, nationalities, etc. or statements confirming that a company complies with local laws around non-discrimination are not sufficient.

For two-tier board structures, the policy needs to apply to the supervisory board and the management board.

Please mark "The question is not applicable to the company" for family-owned companies: We do not expect family-owned businesses to have a policy to foster board diversity (in terms of ethnicity, nationality, origin and gender) if the company only allows family members on the board, given that they cannot influence aspects like gender or nationality.

Regulations that limit companies' ability to select board members are not sufficient to mark this question "Not applicable".

Disclosure Requirements

Listed and/or publicly owned companies are required to provide links to public reports or corporate websites.

Non-listed companies are required to provide the following evidence, depending on the type of company:

- Family-owned companies and privately owned companies are required to provide public reports, corporate websites, or internal documents.
- Cooperatives are required to provide public reports, corporate websites, or internal documents.
- State-owned companies are required to report on their corporate governance in the public domain as their key stakeholder is the general public.

Please note: Answers in the form of 'Confidential additional comments' for any type of non-listed company will not be accepted.
