Contributions & Other Spending

Question

Does the company track its annual total monetary contributions to and spending for political campaigns, political organizations, lobbyists or lobbying organizations, trade associations, and other tax-exempt groups?

Rationale

Although companies legitimately represent themselves in legislative, political, and public discourse, excessive contributions to political campaigns, lobbying expenditures, and contributions to trade associations and other tax-exempt groups may damage companies' reputations and create corruption risks. This question will assess how much money companies are allocating to organizations whose primary role is to create or influence public policy and the extent to which these amounts are disclosed to the public.

Performance Summary
Question Level Company Performance	50

Additional Question Guidance & Information Display

Data Requirements

The company should report its total monetary contributions to political campaigns or organizations, lobbyists, trade associations, and other tax-exempt groups whose role is to influence political campaigns or legislation. This includes all direct and indirect spending, contributions or payments to:

- Political campaigns, ballots measures or referendums.
- Political organizations, trade associations or tax-exempt groups whose role is to influence political campaigns or legislative activities, including chambers of commerce and trade boards. This spending includes membership fees for trade associations, industry associations and business associations.
- Registered lobbyists and lobbying groups.
- Companies do not need to report the monetary value of in-kind giving, employee volunteering or management overheads related to the activities described above.
- Note: Political Action Committee contributions by employees should not be included. However, if the company has set up a PAC for its employees and reports the company's expenditures to set up that PAC, the value is considered. Please report these PAC set-up expenses under "Other."

Note: A commitment not to make political donations is not sufficient for marking 0 in the table. Please provide supporting evidence that the company has not made any donations/contributions in the respective years.

Coverage should be reported as a percentage of total operations, revenues, etc. as provided in the denominator question and should indicate whether the provided data represents the entire organization or only parts of it. The percentage provided in the coverage field should not represent spending as a percentage of total spending or total revenues.

- For example, if the numbers reported are only for the US operations, and the US represents 50% of company revenues, then 50% should be reported as coverage.

If all contributions and spending on political campaigns, lobbyists and trade groups are prohibited by law, please mark "The question is not applicable to the company".

The answer for 'Contributions & Other Spending' and 'Largest Contributions & Expenditures' should correspond: for example, if "The question is not applicable to the company" or 'The company did not make any contributions' is accepted for one, it should be accepted for both. The only exception is when companies partially report on contributions. Then "Contributions & Other Spending" can be answered and "Largest Contributions & Expenditures" will become "No, the company does not report…".

Disclosure Requirements

Disclosure requirements for partially public question:

- Additional credit will be granted for relevant publicly available evidence covering at least one figure in the last reported year.
- If no contributions were made for a specific item or category (e.g., zero political contributions in the last fiscal year), companies should publicly report this information. This should be publicly reported on the company's own website not via a third-party website or on a transparency register. As this is a quantitative question, non-public evidence is not required to support your answer but you may nonetheless upload evidence in "Documents" and reference this in the confidential additional comments.
- For the option "No, the company did not make any contributions to and spending for political campaigns, political organizations, lobbyists or lobbying organizations, trade associations and other tax-exempt groups.", the information must be available in the public domain. This should be publicly reported on the company's own website not via a third-party website or on a transparency register.
