ASC Certification

Question

What was the share of your company's ASC-certified fish and seafood as a percentage of total aquaculture fish and seafood revenues in the previous fiscal year?

Rationale

Aquaculture currently plays a big role in boosting global fish production and in meeting rising demand for fishery products, and will continue to do so well into the 21st century. Sustainable aquaculture, like all other food production practices, faces challenges with respect to sustainable development, such as continuously pursuing ways make production practices more efficient and cost-effective, and to further improve human capacity, resource use and environmental management in aquaculture.

By assessing the certification of supplies and production, we seek to indirectly ascertain strategy and performance with respect to sustainable fish farming.
