Trend of Employee Wellbeing

Question

Does the company track the results of its employee survey?

Rationale

Employee engagement, satisfaction and well-being surveys are crucial tools for evaluating employee conditions, developing policies to attract, retain and develop the best employees, and identifying areas for improvement. This question will determine whether companies conduct regular employee surveys and how metrics on job satisfaction, purpose, happiness and stress are addressed in employee surveys.

The four aspects — job satisfaction, purpose, happiness and stress — are recommended by the World Wellbeing Movement as evidence-informed employee well-being outcome measures, are developed by the University of Oxford's Wellbeing Research Centre. They capture the complementary dimensions of well-being at work as experienced by employees and align with how statistical agencies across the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development are measuring general well-being. Research indicates there is a strong link between employee well-being and business outcomes such as employee productivity, retention, recruitment and firm performance.

Key Definitions

Top level engagement or score: The top level is based on a classification where for example "highly engaged" is 7-10 on a 10 point scale, or equivalent. While companies might conduct multiple surveys, in this question we ask for the top level engagement or score only on the core focus of the survey. Depending on the core focus of the survey, top level can refer to the highest category of either engagement, satisfaction, well-being, or top level of employee net promoter score (eNPS).

% Of employee survey respondents: Refers to the percentage of full-time equivalent (FTE) employees who responded to the survey. This should not be the percentage of employees invited to participate in the survey.

Target: Targets can be the precise, stated target for the year in which the survey was conducted, if the target is long-term for a specific future year, it can be linearly extrapolated. For instance, if the company reports that 70% of employees were engaged or satisfied in fiscal 2020, and set a two-year target of reaching 80% by fiscal 2022, the linearly extrapolated target for fiscal 2021 would be 75% (e.g., 10% improvement divided by two years equals 5% per year).

Employee engagement: Definitions of employee engagement may vary, but the following are representative:

- Gallup: Those who are involved in, enthusiastic about, and committed to their work and workplace.
- Utrecht Work Engagement Scale (UWES-9): "A positive, fulfilling, work-related state of mind that is characterized by vigor, dedication, and absorption."
- Gruvo: "A deep, personal, and empowered investment in work." Deep because the employee cares about the quality of their work. Personal because the work and its contribution to the success of the company matter to the employee. And empowered because "the employee is capable of delivering a quality that will reward their investment of time, talents, effort, and care."

Employee Satisfaction: Refers to external motivation and how happy employees feel about their job; specifically concerning external incentives such as employment benefits.

Employee well-being: According to Gallup, wellbeing refers to "all of the things that are important to each of us and how we experience our lives. Key wellbeing measures include how employees rate their current and expected future lives (life evaluation) and how strongly employees believe their organization cares about their wellbeing."

Employee net promoter score (eNPS): Refers to the question "on a scale of 0 to 10, how likely would you be to recommend this company to a friend or colleague as a place to work?" Those who respond with 9 or10 are considered promoters or a company's most positive, motivated, and satisfied people. Those who respond with 7 or 8 are passives or employees who are neutral, or generally content but not fully committed to the organization. Employees who answer with 0 to 6 are considered detractors or those who wouldn't recommend your company and are unhappy and disengaged to varying degrees.

Aspects addressed in employee surveys: The four aspects included in the question involve metrics related to the complementary dimensions of wellbeing at work as experienced by the employee. They align with how statistical agencies are measuring general wellbeing and how job platform Indeed surveys workplace wellbeing.

- Job satisfaction: Refers to questions in the survey that measure evaluative wellbeing (e.g., "I feel completely satisfied with my work")
- Purpose: Refers to questions in the survey that measure eudemonic wellbeing (e.g "My work has a clear sense of purpose")
- Happiness: Refers to questions in the survey that measures positive effect (e.g., "I feel happy at work, most of the time"
- Stress: Refers to questions in the survey that measures negative effect (e.g., "I feel stressed at work, most of the time")

Data Requirements

- If your company only conducts an employee survey every two years, please duplicate the value of the previous year in the table and provide the target for the most recent year a survey was conducted
- For the employee metric aspects section of the question, companies can attach either private or public evidence, however only information that can be verified will be accepted.

Please note:

- If you have 25 or less FTEs in the organization, then please mark the entire criterion with "The question is not applicable to the company".
- If you have 26-100 FTEs, then please answer "The question is not applicable to the company".

Disclosure Requirements

Disclosure requirements for partially public question: Additional credit will be granted for relevant publicly available evidence covering the following aspect of this question:

- The results of the annual employee survey (i.e., the % of employees with top level of engagement, satisfaction, wellbeing, or (eNPS) for at least the most recent reported year).
